UPCOMING EVENT ALERT FOR ATLANTA AREA

What hides beneath the ocean depths?

Certified scuba diver releases Ocean Hide and Seek

WHAT

Georgia children's book author Jennifer Kramer is a certified member of the National Association of Underwater Instructors. She has snorkeled and dived off Maui, the Caymans, and the coast of Cozumel. She loves to talk about coming face-to-face with a white tipped reef shark, so who better to write a book about the creatures that hide in the deep, blue sea? With the help of Sylvan Dell Publishing, Kramer's Ocean Hide and Seek will hit bookshelves in February of 2009. Hidden in forests of kelp, tucked under a shelf of coral, and floating in dark depths, the denizens of the underwater world wait for readers to discover them. #### MEET JENNIFER

Kramer plans to donate part of the proceeds from her new children's book to the National Marine Sanctuary Foundation. "Each footprint may be small," says Kramer, "but together they create a trail for others to follow. Education is the first step to preserving and protecting the ocean ecosystem and providing future generations with a priceless legacy." Jennifer loves spending time outdoors and believes children make the very best nature guides. Jennifer graduated with a BA from Emory University and a JD/MBA from Georgia State University. It was at Emory that Jennifer obtained her NAUI scuba certification. In addition to Ocean Hide and Seek (Spring 2009), Jennifer has also written Good Luck Charlie and The Ninth Dragon.
